

What's the Big Idea?

Sometimes readers have to use graphic organizers to better understand and organize what they are reading about. Good readers use the text features and their own thinking to help organize the information in the article and come up with a "big idea."

